Abstract

This should be an overview of the student's project in less than half a page. It should summarise what they have actually done on their project: why it was done, how it was done and what were the conclusions. In particular, main objectives, main approaches/technologies used, actual solution/implementation, highlights of evaluation findings.

1 Introduction

1.1 Project Background

1.2 Aims and Methodology

1.3 Structure of the Report

2 Literature and technology review

2.1 Secondary objective 1

The subsections of your literature and technology review should correspond to your secondary research objectives. This should be an in-depth review that provides the foundation for your research method and execution.

2.2 Secondary objective 2

Your review should cite a comprehensive set of sources as evidence to support your analysis (Smith and Jones 2012). As Jones and Smith (2013) said, reliable sources constitute the evidentiary foundation of research, distinguishing rigorous inquiry from unsupported assertion(Other 2014). Your sources should be stored in BibTex format, with appropriate keys, in the file references.bib.

3 Execution

This section should provide a detailed description of the research methods which will used in the project. This will include the process of creating the artefact and evaluating the outcome. This should make reference to the literature review findings where appropriate.

3.1 Technical methods

3.1.1 Theme 1

3.1.2 Theme 2

3.1.3 Theme 3

3.1.4 Theme 4

4 Evaluation and Discussion

5 Social, Legal, Ethical and Professional Issues

6 Conclusion and Further Work
